

It's time to take a stand.

No more single use plastic bottles.

The Natural Grocery Company has decided to stop selling individual size single use plastic bottles of water (less than 1 gallon). In our stores you will still find glass, aluminum and recyclable paper containers and of course , we have reusable bottles you may purchase and fill with water.

Convenience too often trumps smart environmental choices and the convenience of plastic is killing our planet. Did you know that about 70% of plastic water bottles bought in the United States are not recycled, which means the majority end up in landfills or in the oceans, harming the ecosystem and poisoning animals.

Here at The Natural Grocery Company we want to do more to encourage a renewable direction in the grocery business. We understand that this will be a difficult change for many but please join us in reducing plastic waste. This is just a first step. We will continue to identify areas in which we can reduce single use packaging, especially plastics.
